

AIG + Human Condition Safety

Creating a Safer and Smarter Workplace

The use of hardhats, harnesses and stricter safety regulations have improved the safety of worksites over the past century. However, workplace injuries and deaths remain far too common. Around the world, workplace accidents kill one person and injure 153 others every 15 seconds.

New innovative technologies, like wearable devices, are making it possible to create safer and more productive workplaces in environments like energy facilities, warehouses, and stadiums. That's why AIG invested in Human Condition Safety, a start-up company that combines wearable technology with artificial intelligence and building information modeling.

Benefits for AIG Clients

AIG is Human Condition Safety's exclusive insurance partner. Human Condition Safety's technology creates a comprehensive safety ecosystem designed to:

- Reduce workplace injuries and deaths
- Improve operational efficiencies
- Generate real-time data that can be used to predict and reduce risk

Human Condition Safety's technology provides real time insights that can help businesses prevent accidents and injuries from occurring in the first place. By combining Human Condition Safety's technology with AIG's Client Centric Analytics we will be able to help our clients identify leading and lagging indicators that could potentially lower their cost of risk.

Pilot Projects

Human Condition Safety is currently testing the technology at Citi Field stadium in New York. AIG and Human Condition Safety will be conducting additional pilot projects across multiple industries, such as construction, healthcare, manufacturing and energy in 2016.
